

Felix Solis

D.O. Valdepeñas Viña Albali Airen Verdejo Sauvignon Blanc

Inspired by the starry clear night, Félix Solís wanted to create a wine that reflected the joyful and lively spirit of the Spaniards. He named this wine Albali, after a star in the constellation of Wassermann.

In Spain, the indigenous Verdejo grape variety represents a fruitful, light white wine, which can be enjoyed at any time of the year. Viña Albali Airen Verdejo Sauvignon Blanc is the result of the careful selection of the best grapes. Although this is a young wine, it has a great structure.

Regionen

The name Valdepeñas comes from the eponymous town from antiquity, which is located in a sun-drenched river valley, dotted with small rock formations – Val de peñas (Valley of the Rocks). Located south of Castile-La Mancha in central Spain. The climate is dominated by extremes, with temperatures up to 40°C in summer and down to -10°C in winter. The future of this designation of origin lies in the hands of the producers of Tempranillo grapes, who produce red wines that are well suited for aging, from the excellent Crianzas, Reservas and Gran Reservas.

Verkostungsnotizen

Light yellow lemon. Fresh and intense with floral and fruit aromas. Rich, soft body on the palate, with balanced acidity and a hint of fennel, herbs, citrus fruits, melon and peach.

Speiseempfehlung

Suits very well to fresh, light dishes, especially fish and sea products, from sushi to shellfish. This wine also fits perfectly with traditional Spanish dishes from old Castile.

Technische Information

Each step is subject to strict quality control. The best Airén, Verdejo and Sauvignon Blanc grapes are selected and some are macerated for a few hours to support the development of the aromas of both varieties. The fermentation takes place in stainless steel tanks at 14-16 °C. The blending of Airén, Verdejo and Sauvignon Blanc is done by expert hands.
